

Evan Woodruff is a two-time graduate of Bowling Green State University, earning a bachelor's degree in history, master's degree in history, and a certificate in public history. Evan currently serves as an Academic Advisor for Engineering and Engineering Technology majors in the College of STEM. Previously working as a graduate teaching assistant at BGSU and as a writing editor and tutor with Paper Education, Evan has built a plethora of experience working with students both synchronously and asynchronously and has transitioned effortlessly into academic advising. He enjoys helping students succeed but more so relishes in the small victories that lead to the big ones. When not helping students, Evan enjoys immersing himself in history by visiting museums, taking in art, learning about other cultures and their language and practices, as well as watching a good documentary.
